COTTON IN CUBA.—Haman, April 25.—The most important entiget to which I have to request the attention of the readers of the Courier at this time is the great effort that is being made to render Cuba a cotton-producing laland. Plauters in almost every section of our islo have been led to devote attention to the cultivation of cotton by the promises of aid—should it be required—of foreign (English) capital; and the government has decreed that the Joint Stock Cotton-growing Company shall be allowed to import the gines and other machinary requisite for preparing cotton for market, free of all duty. A planter, whose estata is within four leagues of this city, having had the requisits seed presented to him, has recently plauted a field of seven hundred acrees of cotton, which the Joint Stock Company will purchase as it is gathered, gin, press, and send it to the British markets. Thus, as I have previously acticed, the cotton-producing States of the Union must be on the gut size, for, as certain as I now write, Cuba in three years will export cotton to a considerable extent to the British and other European countries. Cotton cultivation is estated to be accultable valued to he natures of the "Aslatics"
